SHOPKEEPERS' KNIFE PLEDGE

Twenty businesses sign up for police scheme targeting sales to teenagers

By Lucy Purdy

news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

BUSINESSES across the borough have given their support to a Haringey Police knife pledge scheme.

Twenty firms have signed up to the campaign, which aims to reduce the sale of knives to those under the age of 18 in Haringey.

Launched last month, it involves business owners agreeing to ask for identification from every customer believed to be under the legal age.

They have also pledged to store knives safely and securely to prevent theft.

Muharrem Ozer, manager of TFC

Supermarket in Wood Green, is among those to sign up.

"We are very sensitive about youths in the shop and we will not sell knives to them," he said.

"We believe that the knife pledge is a fantastic idea from the Met Police and fully support the police and the council in helping to reduce knife crime. I hope more businesses sign up."

Acting police sergeant Roberto Vacca, of Bounds Green Safer Neighbourhoods Team, was pleased by the response from the business community.

"With local businesses being better informed of their responsibilities, the knife pledge scheme will help keep Haringey a safe place to live, work and socialise," he said.

Bingo caller Ricky celebrates 'Dirty Gertie'

BINGO club compere Ricky Denton is celebrating 30 years in the business, or in the popular parlance of rhyming bingo-lingo, "number 30, Dirty Gertie".

The long-serving employee at the Mecca bingo hall in Lordship Lane, Wood Green, used to be a bingo caller, drawing the numbered balls and rattling out the associated nickname until electronic versions of the game made numbered balls obsolete.

Ricky started as a main stage caller in 1984 and was a finalist in the National Bingo Caller of the Year competition in 1998, 2002, 2005 and 2007. He now hosts the shows, entertaining customers with his slick patter and bubbly personality.

Ricky said: "I've had a number of highlights over the years, from working alongside celebrities such as Bruce Forsyth, to seeing the evolution of the way bingo is played with the introduction of electronic versions.

"It certainly doesn't feel as though I've been working for 30 years. It's the support of my trusted team members and customers that really make my job and I look forward to many more years."

Janice Elliott, general manager at the Wood Green club, said "We've got a great track record of colleagues staying with us for 20, 30 or even more years, so cases like Ricky's are far from unique.

"I would like to say thank you to Ricky and all of our other long-serving colleagues. It is, after all, their passion and enthusiasm that has helped make Mecca one of Britain's best-loved bingo operators."

Scrap Rec plan, council is urged

MORE than 200 residents attended a public meeting last week to demand that Haringey Council scraps proposals in its Local Plan identifying Tottenham's 1,400-home Broadwater Farm Estate, and part of Lordship Recreation Ground, adjacent to it, as a potential site for future redevelopment.

A petition was also launched at the meeting, which was organised jointly by Broadwater Farm Residents' Association, Friends of Lordship Rec and Broadwater United Football Academy.

The council has sought to allay fears by reassuring residents that just because a site is included in the strategic planning document, it does not follow that redevelopment will definitely happen.

However, residents remain unconvinced.

Chris Hutton, treasurer of Broadwater Farm Residents' Association, said: "We want the council to withdraw the proposals and engage in proper and meaningful discussions with residents."

Centre reopens

A COMMUNITY centre, which the council had been locked out of, is back in business following a special open day on Saturday.

Chestnuts Community Centre threw open its doors after a facelift following a long-running legal battle by Haringey Council to get the previous management committee to hand back the keys and return it to local authority control.

The centre, in Chestnuts Park, St Ann's Road, Tottenham, is now under the new stewardship of the Bridge Renewal Trust.

A variety of fun activities and entertainment was held throughout the day.

Police appeal for witnesses after 'appalling' station attack

CCTV images issued after couple are beaten up and thrown on to track

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

POLICE are appealing for information after a couple were subjected to a brutal attack at a railway station in the borough.

A man in his 20s was saying goodbye to his girlfriend at Turkey Street station, Enfield, just after 10pm on Wednesday, April 2.

As he saw his girlfriend on to the train two men got off and without warning launched an attack on the young man.

The woman, also in her 20s, leapt from the train in a bid to help her boyfriend, but the attackers turned on her also.

As the train pulled out of the station the two men pushed the couple on to the train tracks – leaving the woman with a broken wrist and her boyfriend with a broken nose.

As the two suspects fled they stole the woman's mobile phone, which had fallen to the ground during the attack.

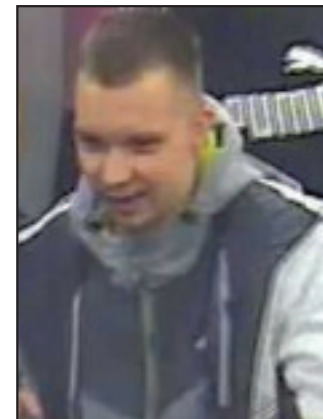

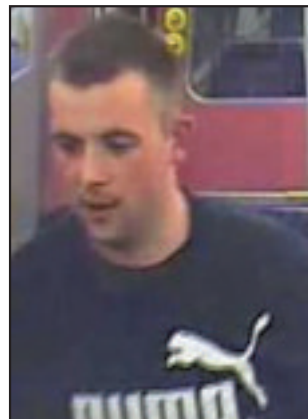

Detective Sergeant Karina Ghersinich, from the British Transport Police, said: "This was an appalling attack of the kind which is thankfully extremely rare on the rail network.

"It is absolutely vital we find those responsible. As part of our investigation we have spoken to people at the station and the surrounding area."

The police have released CCTV images of both the suspects and are appealing for help in tracing the two men.

Anyone with information can contact British Transport Police on 0800 40 50 40, or text 61016 quoting reference ESUB/B6 of 29/04/2015.

Alternatively, and to remain anonymous, they can call Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Police station prepares to celebrate half a century in style

A POLICE station is holding a host of fun activities on Saturday to mark 50 years since it was built.

The event is being held as part of year-long celebrations to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the creation of the London Borough of Enfield. The station, in Baker Street, Enfield, was opened in 1965, replacing the former nick in London Road.

Among the free attractions will be displays by police dogs and their handlers. There will also be children's entertainment, dog micro-chipping and face-painting and henna tattoos, along with bicycle security marking.

The public will also get the chance to meet their local officers and have a close-up look at a police car and a fire engine.

The event is being held from midday until 4pm.

Musical maestros: The Landseer Oboe Trio are playing at Forty Hall on May 23

Stage set for summer concerts

CULTURE vultures can enjoy high-brow entertainment throughout the summer with a string of classical concerts at Enfield's Forty Hall.

The stunning Jacobean mansion, in Forty Hill, will stage concerts once a month on Friday and Saturday evenings between May until July with a line-up of top quality performers.

"The programme follows on the success of our series of autumn concerts and has been developed in partnership with the Royal College of Music and Lauderdale House, in Highgate," said Victoria Sanderson, Forty Hall's business development manager.

"We advise people to book early to avoid disappointment," she added.

Award-winning instrumentalists Ruari Glasheen (percussion) and Laura Snowden (guitar) open the season on Friday, May 22, with contemporary music drawing on folk traditions from around the world.

The following evening (Saturday, May 23) the Landseer Oboe Trio (Ben Marshall, Jesse Bescoby and Fiona Myall) perform a musical medley from contemporary composers including Jay Ungar and Frank Bridge.

The Aureus Quartet make their Forty Hall debut on Friday, June 19, performing a selection of music by Beethoven, Webern, Sollima and Shostakovich.

Another quartet, the Alauda Quartet, performs on Saturday, June 20, featuring work by Caetani and Haydn.

Forty Hall favourites the Lovekyn Consort return to the venue on Friday, July 17, illustrating the semi-secret culture of Elizabethan devotional songs, theatrical airs and arrangements of sacred music along with coded references in Shakespeare's texts.

And appearing the following day will be recorder quartet BLOCK4, performing their interpretation music from the Renaissance and Baroque periods.

The season concludes with short taster Sunday afternoon classical concerts featuring harpsichordist Yeo Yat-Soon on Sunday, July 12, and Sunday, August 23.

Marathon men raise thousands

Marathon veteran: Tony Lambrou

By Julia Gregory

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

FIRST-time London Marathon runners are celebrating their success – and raising thousands of pounds for charity.

Estate agent Andrew Ryde, who owns Chamberlains, in Windmill Hill, Enfield, has raised more than £4,300 for children's charity Coram.

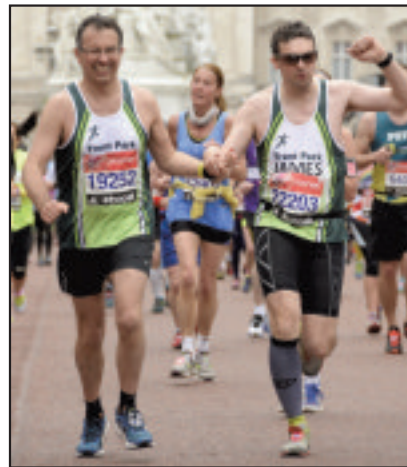

The keen runner trains with Trent Park Running Club and lost two stone as he prepared for the 26.2-mile event.

This year, to mark the event's 35th anniversary, runners were asked to cross the finish line hand in hand with another athlete, celebrating the actions of the first joint men's winners, Dick Beardsley and Inge Simonsen.

So it was fitting that Mr Ryde, 48, finished with James Joy, of Trent Park Running Club. Other parts of his run did not go to plan, however.

He said: "I settled into a steady pace early on and was going well. Then, at 22 miles, I hit the wall, stopped, was sick, got to my feet to an amazing cheer from the crowd all around me and had the most hellish remaining four miles to the finish!"

He finished in four hours and 50 minutes and is thinking about running another marathon.

Debut delight: Andrew Ryde finishes with James Joy; right, Alex Dutton

Donations can be made at virginmoneygiving.com/AndrewRyde1

If Mr Ryde does have another go, Edmonton barber Tony Lambrou can share some tips after completing his tenth London Marathon in five hours and one minute.

The 52-year-old, who runs Smooth Kuts, in Westerham Avenue, said: "It was fantastic and the crowds were shouting and screaming. A lot of them had Union Jacks."

He added: "The last couple of miles when I ran down the Embankment and to the Houses of Parliament were just phenomenal."

His marathon efforts have raised £50,000 for a range of charities, including more than £4,000 to help with expenses associated with his nephew Luke's treatment for leukaemia in Germany.

Alex Dutton is another runner who enjoyed his first marathon.

The 22-year-old, from Manor Farm Road, Enfield, said: "It was a really good day. The whole atmosphere was great and the support was good. I saw my friends and family and the runners in their (fancy dress) costumes."

He ran with his uncle Glyn Roberts and finished in five hours and 30 minutes. So far he has raised £1,700 for the Nightingale Hospice.

Last orders for pub?

Council's decision disappoints Green Dragon campaigners

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

CAMPAIGNERS leading a fight to preserve a landmark pub have admitted they are "devastated" after the council revealed that their bid to secure asset of community value status for the pub had failed.

Last month Mike McClean, 43, of Winchmore Hill, launched a bid to keep the iconic Green Dragon building, at the corner of Green Lanes and Vicars Moor Lane, as a pub.

After the Facebook campaign page attracted 1,495 "likes" and a petition to keep the pub alive secured more than 4,000 signatures, Mike, with help from his wife Sharon, applied to have the pub listed by Enfield Council as an asset of community value. This would protect the building from development as the owners of the property would have to seek extensive planning permission to change its use into anything other than a pub.

If the owners wanted to sell, it would trigger a moratorium period of six months during which community groups could try to raise funds to buy the property.

After the campaigners submitted their bid on March 6, the council has delivered "the worst possible news", according to Mr McClean on the Save The Green Dragon Pub Facebook page.

He wrote: "We are devastated to have to tell you that, despite our best efforts, planning officers have refused our application."

According to the ruling, published last week, the campaigners had failed the fourth point of the criteria – that after the current freeholders of the property, Green Lanes Investments, had lawfully turned the pub into a discount shop it was not realistic to say it could be returned to use as a pub over the next five years.

However, this aspect of the ruling has angered Mr McClean, who said in the Facebook post: "(The property) was built as a pub, it has always been a pub and it remains a pub. Placing a scant board in front of the bar and putting a rubbish pop-up shop in front of it doesn't change that. It is also implied that the pub had already been turned into a 'shop' when our application was submitted. This is not the case. Our application was submitted on March 6 – the 'shop' didn't open until a week later."

He added that from the campaigners' point of view it looked as if council officers had accepted the developers' claims of change of use at face value, without investigating whether any irreversible changes had been made to the interior of the pub.

Despite the major setback, Mike was adamant that the campaign would keep going and added that there was perhaps a way that councillors, rather than officers, could consider the application.

"This is a major blow to us, but the campaign is not dead yet. With your support we hope to vehemently oppose any plans for mixed residential/retail use and for the Green Dragon to remain a public house in the heart of the large geographical area it has served for 300 years."

Conservative general election candidate for Enfield Southgate David Burrows is backing the campaigners and told the Advertiser: "The council has shown it doesn't get the community. It fails to understand the community value of the Green Dragon pub."

However, a spokeswoman for the council said that the application had failed because "the submissions did not meet the strict criteria set out in government legislation".

Rumours are circulating among Winchmore Hill residents that budget supermarket chain Aldi have outbid upmarket rival Waitrose to buy the iconic Victorian building.

However, a spokesman from Green Lanes Investments has told the Advertiser that this is not the case, but hinted that the developers were looking at a retail future for the site. He said: "Our plan remains to provide jobs and services to local people and we are a long way down the line in discussions to bring in a high-end retailer that we hope will be very popular with neighbours and future staff. We will make a further announcement when details are available."

Doug Taylor, leader of Enfield Council said: "I was disappointed with the Green Dragon decision. I cannot say that the officers made a wrong decision as I wasn't involved in the decision-making process – but I will be looking at the reasons they gave as to why they turned the application down."

He added that he was frustrated by the legislation itself and would be looking at cross party discussion on the issue after the election.

Mr Taylor said: "I would say to the campaigners that there's no enforced time limit on re-submitting an application and I would encourage the Green Dragon group to submit another application with the details that the officers have outlined."

Devastated: Mike McClean's efforts to win 'asset of community value' status for the Green Dragon pub have ended in failure

Deer taken to safe haven after attacks

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A FAWN who had become an urban safari fixture in the north east of the borough was whisked to safety last week after a series of attacks left animal lovers fearing for her safety.

The female fawn had been living in and around Enfield Crematorium, in Great Cambridge Road and Turkey Street, for a year without its mother.

Concerned animal lovers fearing for its safety repeatedly called the Enfield Wildlife Rescue and Ambulance Service, based in Snakes Lane in Trent Park, and Barry Smitherman, who manages the centre along with his wife June, recommended that the best thing they could do for the fawn would be to let it run wild.

However, as she became an established quirk of the area, she started to lose her instinctive fear of humans.

Zizi Lewis, of Wellington Road, Bush Hill Park, set up a Facebook group in April to campaign to let more people know about the fawn's plight.

"I became aware of her about six months ago, but it was only in the last couple of months that she really started to lose her fear of people," the mum-of-two said.

"She would go into the park opposite Turkey Street station every evening actively looking for attention from people.

"She had no fear at all of humans and actually used to follow people around. She absolutely loved my son and was just wonderful with him."

But last week, after reports that the fawn had been attacked by a group of youths and had been set upon by a dog, Zizi stepped up her campaign to have the animal rescued for its own safety and she called Mr Smitherman.

He said he had decided to step in to rescue the animal as it had become increasingly clear to him that she was in real danger.

And last Wednesday, with the help of Enfield Parks Police, he launched a rescue bid for the fawn.

"We hadn't stepped in before because we couldn't put her in with other deer as she would be attacked by them as when deer come into contact with a deer which does not act like a deer they attack it," he said.

"However, we were starting to get three or four calls a day detailing attacks with dogs on her, schoolkids attacking her and we knew something had to be done."

He managed to capture the fawn and with the police was able to transport it safely to the sanctuary of the Trent Park Animal Wildlife Centre.

"We couldn't have done it without the police," said Mr Smitherman.

"One of the things I was most worried about was whether she might harm herself in transit by moving around or trying to flee – but with the police we managed it in a very safe and controlled way."

However, Mr Smitherman added that while the campaign among animal lovers locally had been fantastic, with people power helping raise the profile of the deer's condition, he wanted to spread the message that no matter how cute an animal was, it was always better to let it run wild rather than tame it as it was crucial for animals to keep their fear of humans so they would know to escape attack.

"It is going to be a long, slow process, rehabilitating this deer as it thinks it's human," he added. "We have had to build a separate enclosure for it – away from the other deer as they could attack it and kill it."

In a bid to help the centre with the costs of keeping the young fawn, Tottenham animal lover Sandy Jones, who became enthralled in the story of the Turkey Street doe, set up a

Safe and sound: The fawn is tempted by an apple fundraising page where people can donate money to the centre to thank them for getting the deer out of harm's way. Anyone wishing to donate can log on to <http://www.gofundme.com/tb59hr8>

'Vital newspapers': Achilleas Georgiou, deputy council leader

Our Enfield plays vital role

NICK de Bois' letter ("Protect our local papers", Advertiser, April 29) is short of facts.

We value the vital role our local newspapers play in keeping residents well informed about the council and council services – and accountable for our policies and decisions.

As a result we continue to advertise our services, initiatives, events, meetings and public notices in our local newspapers, as well as providing them with any information and responses they require for council-related features.

We have a media partnership with the Advertiser to celebrate LBE50 (Enfield's 50-year celebration) – demonstrating our common commitment to celebrating and supporting the fantastic people and places which make our borough such a great place to live, work and enjoy.

Our Enfield is the only publication to be distributed to all 120,000 households in the borough. Without a regular council magazine the only way of reaching all of our residents with information is through multiple leaflet drops, which is considerably less cost-effective.

If Mr de Bois is critical of Our Enfield, then he must also be critical of the previous Conservative council administration that introduced it and published it 12 times in the final year of its administration.

The first thing we did when we came into office in 2010 was to reduce the frequency of Our Enfield to six editions. Achilleas Georgiou
Deputy Leader
Enfield Council

Congratulations to all our marathon runners

I AM writing to offer my congratulations to all of the amazing runners who made the London Marathon such a huge success.

I especially want to say a massive well done and thank you to the 133 fantastic runners who took part on behalf of Diabetes UK, the charity that cares for, connects with and campaigns on behalf of all people affected by diabetes.

About 40,000 people completed the 26.2-mile course, running past some of London's most famous landmarks on the way, including Tower Bridge, Big Ben and the London Eye, and Team Diabetes UK supporters were out in force to cheer their heroes to the finish line.

The money raised by our amazing marathon runners will go towards helping to make life better for the more than 400,000 people living with diabetes across London.

Diabetes is a serious condition and if not managed properly it can lead to major complications such as amputation, heart disease and blindness.

If the runners from Team Diabetes UK have inspired you to take on a fundraising challenge of your own, whether running, cycling, swimming or walking, pay a visit to www.diabetes.org.uk/events to see how you can get involved and raise vital funds for this fantastic cause.

Democracy in a region where it's sorely lacking

MANY of us are delighted to 'talk about Israel', as Brendan O'Brien, Secretary of the Enfield Palestine Solidarity Campaign, puts it ("We must talk about Israel", Advertiser, April 29).

We could start by pointing out that his organisation openly calls for Israel's destruction. Indeed, the PSC's very logo consists of a map of "Palestine" which doesn't even show Israel as a country.

We could continue by remarking that the PSC is vocal in its support of the Jihadi terrorist organisations Hamas and Hezbollah, who are not only committed to Israel's destruction, but subscribe to a fascistic ideology identical to those of Islamic State and al-Qaeda.

David Burrowes is absolutely right when he describes Israel as a "beacon of democracy" in a region which is rather short of that commodity.

Mr O'Brien might reflect that not only does Israel provide a national home for a Jewish people a large proportion of whom were driven out of the surrounding Arab states by persecution.

It also provides the Middle East's only safe haven for Christians, who are free and secure in the practice of their religion.

It is also noticeable that the major international news organisations, often so critical of Israel, nevertheless base their Middle East operations there because it is the only country where they are free to operate without coercion.

Despite the continuing threats to its own existence, Israel continues to do good in the world – most recently by sending field hospitals and other assistance to Nepal to aid the victims of the terrible earthquake.

Perhaps Mr O'Brien could tell us what comparable good the regimes and terrorist gangs the Palestine Solidarity Campaign supports have done?

Cuts put our schools at risk

UNDERSTANDABLY, we have heard a lot about health during this general election campaign, which, for Enfield residents, has been especially relevant given the situation regarding Chase Farm Hospital.

However, as a deputy headteacher of some 20 years, I am particularly concerned about the state of education in Enfield. In my role I have been particularly aware of the growing pressures on school finances.

I now understand, in recent days, some of our local headteachers have written to parents regarding the current cuts to their school budgets and the fact that further cuts could lead to a significant reduction in teachers and other key staff.

This would have a serious detrimental impact on education standards.

Many schools are running big deficits and will have to deal with cuts of hundreds of thousands of pounds as they plan for the next three years, in order to make ends meet.

I feel that the Conservatives are opening the door to unqualified teachers in our schools knowing that heads will not be able to afford the best qualified teachers.

This is unfair to our young people and their parents.

With people about to vote in, arguably, the most important election in a generation, I hope the constituents in Enfield will think seriously about the implications for education over the next five years.

Further, extreme cuts to schools budgets in Enfield will put our children's education in jeopardy.

Stuart Plunkett

Good on you, Mr Burrowes

RATHER than criticising David Burrowes ("These poney campaigns aren't fooling anyone", Advertiser, April 22). Edward Ellis should be applauding him for standing up for our area.

Instead of making empty promises like so many other politicians, together with Nick de Bois, he did play a key role in securing the £275million redevelopment of Chase Farm Hospital.

What a contrast to Labour health ministers in a previous election promising an £80m redevelopment which came to nothing.

Mr Ellis mentions Southgate Police Station counter service being barely open, but is not the crucial issue that Southgate police station has retained local operations of 35 police helping to cut crime by 30 per cent? I know that Mr Burrowes convinced Boris not to sell Southgate police station.

Mr Ellis criticises Mr Burrowes' local campaigns to stop cuts to libraries and bin collections. But why would Enfield consult on these cuts if it was not considering implementing them?

I am pleased we have a strong voice in Mr Burrowes and long may it continue.

Drop in phone theft welcome

I AM delighted to see that the number of mobile phone thefts has fallen.

According to the Mayor of London's figures, there were 20,000 fewer victims of phone theft up to October last year, compared to the year before.

The Metropolitan Police should be praised for their Operation Ringtone, which focused on detecting and reducing phone crime by targeting theft hotspots with increased patrols and using intelligence and technology to bring offenders to justice.

We should also praise the phone developers. For example, Apple introduced a system which allowed people to "kill" their phone if it was stolen, making it much less attractive to thieves. Our city has an amazing tech sector. I hope that London's tech gurus will continue to develop exciting apps including new and effective ways to reduce thefts of mobile phones and other crimes.

ELECTION2015
The election starts Thursday May 7

Looking for votes: Ross Kemp and Joan Ryan go canvassing in Hedge Hill

Ross rallies the Labour faithful

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

DOCUMENTARY presenter, former EastEnders and high-profile Labour supporter Ross Kemp visited the party's HQ in Enfield North, in Lancaster Road, on Friday to galvanise troops before tomorrow's general election.

Mr Kemp's appearance came at the end of a week which saw visits from Tory big hitters in the form of Prime Minister David Cameron and London Mayor Boris Johnson.

However, he insisted that he was not making his flying visit purely to offer the Labour camp some celebrity glamour.

He told the Advertiser: "I honestly believe that me being here isn't because I'm a celebrity. I just came here to say well done to people and thank people.

"I'm showing my support because I'm a member of the Labour Party and have been for years. "I'm here because Joan Ryan has previously done a brilliant job as an MP for this area."

Mr Kemp has backed Ms Ryan's campaigns before, in 2005 and 2010, and he claimed her defeat last time was down to the way the boundary of the constituency had changed before the last election. When asked if her involvement in the expenses scandal, when she was asked to pay back £5,121 of mortgage interest, might have influenced the outcome, he replied: "I don't think so at all actually.

"Basically, I'm here to support someone I believe in. She cares about people – not just the rich end of this area – she cares about everybody. Chase Farm has lost its casualty department. Nick de Bois stood there with the leader of the Tory party and said they weren't going to cut it and then they cut it."

With just a week to go, it looks as if there will be no clear majority in Westminster on May 8 – and Mr Kemp said that the closeness of the contest was not making it harder to enthrone campaigners.

He said: "That just encourages you more surely to try and push people to get out the vote.

"One thing I would say is a lot of people died to enable people to have the right to vote. I wouldn't say it should be mandatory to vote the way it is in Australia – who am I to demand that – but I would encourage people who feel disillusioned to please vote – because on Friday morning you might wake up with a government you didn't want and you might wish you had voted."

Goodbye Andy – now tell us which football team you really support!

TRIBUTES have been paid to Andy Love, the departing MP for Edmonton.

Mr Love has represented the constituency for the best part of two decades.

The 66-year-old was first elected in 1997, taking Edmonton out of Tory control for the first time in 14 years after losing a fight for the seat in 1992 by just 593 votes to Conservative incumbent Ian Twinn.

Long-time friend and election agent Andrew Stafford remembers the 1997 battle as one of the highlights of the past 18 years working with Mr Love.

In almost two decades as an MP, he has become a stalwart of the treasury select committee, which he sat on from 2005, and he also acted as parliamentary private secretary to Jacqui Smith when she was the minister at the Department of Health and the Department of Trade and Industry between 2001 and 2005.

Born and brought up in the west of Scotland, he moved to

Farewell: Outgoing MP for Edmonton Andy Love

London in 1973 after graduating from the University in Strathclyde in Glasgow, and two years later joined the Labour Party.

In 1980 he was elected as a Labour councillor in Haringey, serving two terms during which time he chaired both the finance and housing committees.

He then became chairman of the Hornsey and Wood Green Constituency Labour Party between 1987 and 1989.

"The best thing about working with Andy is that he doesn't ask you to do anything he doesn't do," said Mr Stafford. "He is out knocking on doors just as much as the rest of us."

He revealed that one of the things that entertained him was Mr Love's seemingly fluid football allegiances.

"One thing I have learned after all these years is never ask Andy which football team he supports," he said. "I have heard him say on one day that he supports Spurs, but then maybe a few weeks later he will say he supports Arsenal.

"He's the only person I have ever heard say that they're both a Celtic and a Rangers supporter. I even remember once he said Partick Thistle were his favourite team."

His Conservative neighbour David Burrows, MP for Enfield Southgate, said: "Andy and I might have disagreed on politics, but we always worked well together on issues that affected the people of Enfield. He was a good servant of the borough."

Election hopefuls court 'grey vote'

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

OLDER voters in the borough had the chance to grill election candidates on a raft of issues from housing to education at a hustings event last week.

The event at the Dugdale Centre, in London Road, Enfield, was organised by the Enfield Over 50s Forum on Friday and saw Bambos Charalambous, Labour candidate in Enfield Southgate, answer questions and debate issues alongside Enfield North candidates Deborah Cairns (UKIP), Nick de Bois (Conservative), David Flint (Green) and Cara Jenkinson (Liberal Democrat).

Grilled on the issue of integration in communities, specifically whether lessons could be learned about faith schooling from the Northern Irish system, where schools are still largely segregated which some argue fuels sectarianism, Mr de Bois responded by citing the challenges presented by those who do not have English as a first language.

He said: "I am disappointed that I still have people coming into my office who have been in this country for over ten years and not been able to work and have not learned the language."

"I think that is a barrier to integration and it's a barrier to getting a true multi-cultural society."

One member of the audience then asked: "So, you're going to reinstate the funding for ESOL classes?" – and was met with loud applause.

Mr de Bois said that English as a second language classes were being funded, but his questioner replied: "ESOL is my nine to five and I can tell you it is not."

Ms Cairns agreed with Mr de Bois and said that one of the biggest barriers to integration she had seen in schools was students' lack of English.

She said: "This has to start at home. If they are taught at home, then they would follow through all their lives and there won't be so much ill feeling."

Answering murmurs of disagreement, she insisted: "There is ill feeling when you have to spend extra money for interpreters – money that could be spent better on something else."

Mr Charalambous said: "My first language wasn't English – and I did go to a Church of England school."

Joan Ryan, the Labour candidate in Enfield North, was unable to attend.

Yemi Awolola (Christian Peoples Alliance) and Joe Simpson (Trade Unionist and Socialist Coalition) were not invited.

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Richard Power feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and Richard is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Richard a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Teenage kicks...

By Julia Gregory

YOUNG dragons are put through their paces as they learn self-defence at a martial arts centre in Enfield.

The classes at the Shogun MMA Studio, in Baker Street, are designed to teach children self-defence techniques, while improving their fitness and developing self-respect and self-discipline at the same time.

Paul Treacy started the classes after his own children started copying his techniques and decided to create a programme which was safe for students as young as four to practise.

Mr Treacy explained: "The first thing it teaches them is discipline and control."

Keep it in the family: Brothers Archie and Charlie Islam practise their punches

The younger children, aged from four to seven, join the Dragon Warriors classes, where they develop their hand and eye coordination and motor skills, while the eight to 13-year-old students become Cadets as they learn the skills which Mr Treacy said can help them avoid confrontations.

He said: "The main thing is about learning distance and control. It's about control and evasion rather than hitting someone."

He added: "We instil in them the positive attitude. It's not about hitting somebody. You can walk away from it."

ENFIELD TOWN Football Club have confirmed that they will be appealing against a Football Association verdict which has led to their place in the Ryman Premier Division play-offs being put in severe threat.

Town were found guilty by the FA late last month – just three days before their final match of the season – of fielding an ineligible player earlier in the season and were subsequently docked three points by the Ryman League on Wednesday last week – a decision which would see them drop from fifth to seventh in the final table and fall out of the play-off places.

However, Town are adamant that they are innocent in the matter, which dates back to two matches in which midfielder Aryan Tajbakhsh played shortly joining the club in January. The club have now submitted their appeal against the FA's decision and the hearing will be held on Friday.

Football club appeal in bid to avoid points deduction

The club have also confirmed that they will decide whether to appeal against the Ryman League's points deduction once they know the outcome of the appeal.

A club statement said: "Over the past few days the Enfield Town board have been considering whether or not to appeal against both the FA's decision and the Ryman League's decision in relation to charges against ETFC and Aryan.

"The board has decided to proceed with an appeal against the FA decision. The board will aim to make an announcement this week on whether or not the club intends to appeal against the Ryman League decision.

"In the meantime the club would like to thank other clubs, supporters and commentators for the overwhelming support for our stance."

The statement continued: "We would like to thank Lewes FC in particular for launching their Call for Support for Enfield Town Football Club campaign.

"We have been truly overwhelmed by these sympathetic messages, including some which have put forward some suggestions for fundraising should we wish to pursue the issues further.

"The ethos of non-league football has been evident in every message."

Should Enfield Town win their appeal, then they will visit Hendon in the play-off semi-finals on a date yet to be confirmed.

Deaf 'have trouble accessing services'

Report criticises lack of sign language interpreters

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

SHOCKING examples of the problems deaf or hard of hearing patients face in gaining access to health services in Enfield are revealed in a report by the borough's health watchdog.

They include an individual who was unaware they had been diagnosed with a heart attack because of ineffective communication by medical staff, as well as another patient in a hospital bed who missed out when the tea trolley visited his ward because the tea lady did not realise that he was unable to hear her.

The experiences are among examples collected by Healthwatch Enfield and Enfield Disability Action for its report entitled Improving Services for Deaf Patients in Enfield.

Lorna Reith, chief executive of Healthwatch Enfield, said: "The report outlines some of the difficulties that deaf individuals told us they face when trying to access health services in Enfield and makes recommendations for improvements to local services."

A common problem is the lack of availability of sign language interpreters in GP practices, clinics, hospitals, dentists and opticians.

Not having an interpreter for consultations can result in deaf patients not knowing about or understanding their medical conditions adequately, making it difficult for the doctor to carry out a thorough clinical assessment and explain the diagnosis and treatment to a patient, said the report.

Individuals are often expected to rely on

Difficulties: Lorna Reith, the chief executive of Healthwatch Enfield family members to interpret, but that compromises patient confidentiality and risks errors in translation and understanding of medical matters.

The report warns that such barriers can put deaf people off contacting their GP and can result in conditions being undiagnosed or diagnosed late when treatment is more difficult.

The 24-page document makes a raft of recommendations aimed at establishing better mechanisms for ensuring Enfield Clinical Commissioning Group, North Middlesex University Hospital Trust, in Sterling Way, Edmon-ton, Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust, which runs Chase Farm Hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, and Barnet, Enfield and Haringey Mental Health Trust provide improved access to sign language interpreters.

It also recommends that systems should be put in place to ensure that all GPs and hospital staff are aware that a patient is deaf and that it should be the most noticeable information on their file or in signage by their hospital bed.

If you can relate to any of the following questions then it is a sign your denture needs attention:

DO YOU FIND YOUR DENTURES:

Do not fit as well on your gums as they used to?

Are they loose?

Do not cut food as well as they used to?

Do they make your face look older?

If any of the above breeds familiar territory then I may be able to alleviate some of these problems for you.

My name is Caroline Persaud I am a qualified CLINICAL DENTAL TECHNICIAN. Chrissy's getting ready for a proper dust-up...

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

SAUCY Carry-On-style stage plays, scattered with double entendres, have just about held their own (oo-er missus) against musicals and straight drama in recent years, despite the waning popularity of comedy farces with theatre-goers.

Suggestive double meanings and side-splitting quips come thick and fast, however, in Dirty Dusting – the plot of which revolves around three elderly women office cleaners, who, on learning they are to be made redundant, decide to exact revenge by using the office to set up an adult sex chat line.

Starring comedienne Crissy Rock, who played no-nonsense scouser Janey York in the ITV series Benidorm, the show comes to Wyllotts Theatre, in Darks Lane, Potters Bar on Friday, May 15.

She plays Elsie, who with her fellow cleaners Gladys, played by Leah Bell, and Olive, played by Dolores Poretta Brown, are about to be given the boot by overzealous office manager Dave.

Fearing that they have little chance of gaining employment elsewhere, the ladies hit upon a wheeze that will boost their falling income.

A chance wrong number requiring a sex chat line rings into the office and gives them a great idea: "Why not run an adult chat line, ourselves?"

After all, their age and appearance won't matter on the telephone and providing they can keep it a secret from their boss they could be on to a winner.

Needless to say, things don't go entirely according to plan.

Written by Ed Waugh and Trevor Wood, the production is described as a heart-warming feel-good comedy.

"The script is dead funny," says Crissy.

"It's not rude, but it's funny. It's postcard humour.

"Although there is a part where we're all in rubber gear and everyone screams because you wouldn't expect women of our age, nearly in our 60s, to be in Ann Summers gear, would you?"

Keeping it clean: Crissy Rock stars in Dirty Dusting at Wyllotts Theatre, in Potters Bar, on May 15

Sir Harry is king in game of spies

SPOOKS: THE GREATER GOOD
(15, 104 mins)

DURING a nine-year run on BBC One, Spooks thrilled viewers with the morally conflicted escapades of members of Section D of MI5, including one gruesome death sequence involving a deep fat fryer that sparked a deluge of complaints.

The show concluded in 2011 with the death of a pivotal character, effectively bringing down the curtain on the high-stakes spy game.

After four years in dramatic limbo, familiar faces return in this glossy big-screen mission penned by Jonathan Brackley and Sam Vincent, who co-wrote the majority of episodes of the final two series.

There's a comforting air of familiarity about this Bourne Identity-style caper that serves as a reboot of the franchise and wedges the door ajar for further assignments, presuming lead actor Kit Harington can be wooed away from Game Of Thrones.

Director Bharat Nalluri, who was closely associated with the TV version, maintains a brisk pace and orchestrates a couple of nail-biting action sequences.

Sir Harry Pearce (Peter Firth), head of counter-terrorism at MI5, oversees the handover of terrorist Qasim (Eyles Gabel) to the CIA.

The transfer, via the traffic-clogged roads of London, reaches a standoff when Qasim's gun-toting henchmen attack the police escort.

Harry makes the bold decision to avoid bloodshed by releasing the prisoner.

Qasim narrowly escapes a subsequent pursuit by MI5 agent June Keaton (Tuppence Middleton) and her partner.

Soon after, Harry vanishes without trace, shouldering the blame for the debacle.

Dame Geraldine Maltby (Jennifer Ehle), deputy director general of MI5, and Oliver Mace (Tim McInnerny), chairman of the Joint Intelligence Committee, enlist Harry's protegee Will Crombie (Harington) to track down his mentor.

Will reluctantly agrees and unwittingly stumbles into a deadly conspiracy.

"I had to find someone I can trust, it's a short list," Harry informs Will when they eventually meet.

With the clock ticking before Qasim detonates a dirty bomb in the heart of London, Will attempts to navigate a web of intrigue, some of it spun by Harry, aided by fellow agent Erin Watts (Lara Pulver).

Spooks: The Greater Good references tragic events from the final episode of the TV series and reopens old wounds to cast doubt on the ulterior motives of some of the key players.

Fans will savour these gossamer thin ties to the past, but Nalluri's picture works well as a stand-alone feature for the uninitiated.

Firth affects the same furrowed brow to suggest he is custodian of too many secrets, while Harington expends energy in bruising fight sequences.

Agents: Peter Firth and Kit Harington

The plot twists and turns, and threatens to tie itself in knots, but thankfully unravels with a satisfying dose of treachery.

As Harry reminds his idealistic protegee: "You can do good, or you can do well. Sooner or later, they make you choose."

Lanes Property Agents have offices in Enfield, Cheshunt and Hertford with new homes sites all over London, Hertfordshire and Essex. We wanted to make the Cheshunt office more welcoming and friendly for the customer by creating a relaxed, open and inviting environment where they can come in, enjoy a coffee and look at properties, rather than walk into a row of desks and staring staff.

Alex Ward, Sales director said: "It is important that the office is tidy, fresh and clean, you never get a second chance to create a first impression - if an estate agent's office doesn't look good how will they be able to market your home?"

"A client wants to see their house being marketed in the window and a buyer wants to see a selection of properties, Lanes Estate Agents aim to create the minimalistic clean environment with enough properties displayed to fulfil their customers' wishes." The new office has cleaner lines, Wood flooring, seating area, with designated working areas as well as keeping our traditional branding and colours.

FALLING SHORT

Frustrated with outcome: Mauricio Pochettino felt that Tottenham were unlucky to lose

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

HEAD coach Mauricio Pochettino has insisted that Tottenham Hotspur were unlucky to come away empty-handed from Sunday's Premier League clash against Manchester City.

Spurs created a host of chances during the match at White Hart Lane but were unable to take any of them and Sergio Aguero scored the only goal of the game to give the visitors a 1-0 victory which leaves Tottenham seven points adrift of fourth place with just four games remaining.

"I am proud of the players, our performance was good and we deserved more, much more than the result," Pochettino said. "We created a lot of chances but did not score. Congratulations to our players for their efforts."

"We created more chances than Manchester City. I am very disappointed with the result, but happy with the performance.

"The effort was good, we managed the tempo, we had possession and we moved City around but were stopped by Joe Hart. We were a little unlucky."

"We created a lot of chances against a very good team but, as always in football, it's about the small details. That's what makes the difference."

The defeat means that Spurs will end this season with fewer points than last time around and Pochettino insists that he will assess his side in the summer – and is adamant that he wants to have the final say over any potential new signings.

"We need to analyse the season, but if you play like we did in this match then we will win more than we lose," he said. "I think the person who has the final decision on new players should be me."

"Always the manager and the coaching staff need to deal with the player, in the changing room or on the pitch, and if the feeling is not good between us it is difficult to achieve something.

"It is very important that I agree on the players who stay here and the players whom we may bring in."

"If not, if you bring in some players here and I don't know them, then maybe it is not that they are bad players but the feeling with the coaching staff or the manager is important."

Pochettino added: "If we reach the Europa League I think we need to be focused on the Premier League and try to reach the top four – that is important."

"It is not easy. It is difficult to guess about that but I always believe that if we are clever and take the right decisions we need to believe we can reach the top four next season. We need to be ambitious."

A tragic day at the New River Stadium

TRAGEDY struck at the New River Stadium on Sunday as the London Skolars' clash at home to Keighley Cougars in rugby league's Kingstone Press Championship One was abandoned after the visitors' Danny Jones suffered a suspected cardiac arrest – and later died in hospital.

The Welsh international, who was 29, was taken off in the fourth minute of the match after reporting that he felt unwell and then collapsed on the side of the pitch.

Jones was treated at the ground before being taken to the Royal Free Hospital, where he passed away later that evening.

A statement from the Skolars said: "We would like to extend our deepest sympathies to Danny's family and friends. Danny was a well-respected and popular player and will be sadly missed."

"Our thoughts are also with our friends at the Keighley Cougars club, team, staff and supporters."

Rugby Football League's chief operating officer Ralph Rimmer added: "It is always devastating when someone so young dies in these circumstances."

"Danny was a popular and talented player, having played at the highest level with Wales and for more than 12 seasons with Keighley Cougars and Halifax."

"The rugby league community will mourn his loss and I wish to extend our deepest sympathies to Danny's friends and family at this incredibly sad time."

"The family, friends and teammates of Danny are currently, and will continue to be, supported by the RFL Benevolent Fund and Sporting Chance."

"We would ask that the privacy of the Jones family, players and Keighley Cougars staff be respected."

The match was abandoned in the 16th minute, with the Skolars trailing 12-6 at the time.

The London Skolars are scheduled to return to action at Oxford on Sunday (3pm).

Borough miss out on spot in the final

HARINGEY BOROUGH'S triumphant season came to a disappointing end when they were beaten 4-1 at home by Bowers and Pitsea in the semi-finals of the Essex Senior League Cup.

Borough were crowned league champions last month with a record number of points and goals, but their hopes of completing a memorable double were dashed on Tuesday last week when they were ultimately outplayed by the side who finished second behind them in the table.

The hosts actually made the better start to the match as they broke the deadlock after just nine minutes when Darrell Cox drilled the ball between the legs of the advancing keeper and into the net.

However, their lead did not last for long as some unconvincing defending gave Rob Whinnell the opportunity to score from virtually point-blank range on 17 and 19 minutes to turn the game on its head.

There was little to choose between the sides in the remainder of the first half, with both having chances to add to their score, but Bowers took a firm grip on the contest four minutes into the second period as Lewis Manor got on the end of a free-kick driven low into the box from the left and turned the ball into the net from close range.

And Manor effectively set the seal on the visitors' triumph by scoring again – his 39th goal of the season – with another close-range finish on 61 minutes.

Borough will now wait and see which division they will be promoted to for next season, with Ryman League Division One North their most likely destination.
